Its always hard to find out when somones gone, Joy and I would talk and lose touch through time, its been quite a while since I had heard from her last, though I always wondered how she was doing. Condolences to her family and friends, the night sky will shine a little brighter with its new star.

To often we lose touch with those we care about. I haven't talked to Amie in a couple years, but she was often in my thoughts, and always in my heart. She left a lasting impression on those who were fortunate enough to meet her.
