Mom, you will be missed by many that is for sure. Though time passed and miles separated us, I always knew you were there. Different paths traveled and many choices made, I always knew you were there. Through health struggles and life's challenges, I always knew you were there. That will be the tough part, as all these things continue to happen, I know that you are not there. But I have peace in knowing that you have a new body thanks to the blood of Jesus and are in eternal worship with the Lord (along with Takas and Rayland) because I know that you are there. We all love you and may we all be reunited again someday.
